

In this issue of Present Time, many people share how they've started and persisted with working to end the climate emergency. Tim Jackins describes how current conditions require fresh thinking about RC leadership and discusses handling mistakes and attacks. There's more clarity about U.S. oppressor patterns and an interesting new perspective on ending racism. Working-class and Chinese-heritage people's liberation are featured. And of course there's much more.

For the July issue, please send us articles and poems by May 16 and any changes to the back-pages lists by May 23.
